

Take charge of your family's water safety

WATER SAFETY FOR PARENTS

CLASSIFICATION OF BUBBLES

If a child lets go of a big slew of big bubbles all at once it's an indication that their body is going to attempt to breathe in soon.

Do not grab your child out of the water.

Offer your hand in front of their face or touch their face or body to offer assistance.

THE CHANGE IN BODY LANGUAGE

- Glancing up at you
- Reaching for you
- Changing their reach
- Swimming becomes frantic
- Glancing back at you if swimming away

Indication of your child running out of air.

Offer your hand in front of their face or touch their face or body to offer assistance.

Or, give your child a little boost to help them get to safety.
